AI Summary

The article examines the Supreme Court's decision in Kimble v. Marvel Entertainment, LLC, which addressed whether the Court should overrule the precedent set by Brulotte v. Thys Co.. The Court ultimately upheld the Brulotte holding, which prohibits post-expiration patent royalties, citing the principle of stare decisis and deferring to Congress to modify patent law if necessary. Read More

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Marvel sought a declaratory judgment in federal district court to confirm that they could cease royalty payments to Kimble upon the expiration of the patent in 2010. The district court found for Marvel and held that the holding in Brulotte made the royalty provision unenforceable after the patent's expiration. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals was unconvinced by the Brulotte holding, however it affirmed the district court's holding.

History of the U.S. Supreme Court

The U.S. Supreme Court is the highest tribunal in the nation for all cases and controversies arising under the Constitution of the United States. The Court stands as the final arbiter of the law and guardian of constitutional liberties.

The unprecedented idea of a third, "judicial" branch of government was introduced in the 1787 Constitutional Convention while delegates debated the separation of powers between the legislative and executive branches. While legal issues had previously been considered executive matters, various delegates to the Convention were opposed to the strong central government which would inevitably be created through this arrangement. Some advocated for national laws to instead be enforced by state courts, while others proposed a national judicial authority. The Convention ultimately outlined a

To the right of the search bar is another "All Databases" dropdown. Below the search bar are links for "Advanced Search" and "Search Help". A red rectangle highlights the "MyHein Profile" dropdown menu, which is open and shows three options: "Log In", "What Is MyHein?", and "Create an Account". Below the navigation bar, there are four filters: "Find a Database (e.g., Law Journal Library)" with a dropdown arrow, "All Subjects" with a dropdown arrow, "All Database Types" with a dropdown arrow, and "Publisher" with a dropdown arrow. Below these filters, it says "36 Databases found" and shows a row of alphabet buttons from "ALL" to "Z". The "ALL" button is highlighted. Below the alphabet buttons, the letter "A" is displayed. On the right side, under the heading "Popular Databases", the "Law Journal Library" is listed with a description: "Our signature collection of more than 3,400 multidisciplinary scholarly journals. Coverage for all journals is from inception".
