Add a Library : Log in to a Library

3. Once logged in, the login method will be shown on the library card, and the bottom-right button will be changed to 登出 (Log out).

If you're not yet a registered user of the library, please visit its official website or contact the library to obtain a library card or account. You can then log in via the iRead eBooks app.

- You can add multiple libraries at the same time, allowing you to browse and manage collections across different libraries.

Add a Library : Choose Chinese/Foreign Language Collection

The iRead eBooks app integrates both Chinese-language resources (iRead eBooks 華藝電子書) and foreign-language resources (Ainosco eBooks 是科外文電子書). You can switch between them anytime by selecting 瀏覽館別 (Collection) at the top of the 我的圖書館 (My Libraries) page.

A library card labeled 中文館 (Chinese-Language Collection) provides access to Chinese books, while one labeled 外文館 (Foreign-Language Collection) provides access to foreign-language books.

If you cannot find any books after selecting 瀏覽館別 (Collection) as Chinese-Language Collection or Foreign-Language Collection, please check if the libraries you added provide that type of content.

Search for Academic Literature

In addition to books, the iRead eBooks app also lets you search for academic literature — including journal articles, conference proceedings, theses, and dissertations — from Airiti Library 華藝線上圖書館.

Simply select 學術文獻 (Academic Literature) when searching by keyword (p.12) to search for academic literature.

Search for Academic Literature

- The app currently only supports searches for public academic literature collections. Some collections are restricted to patrons of specific libraries. To access these, please visit the Airiti Library 華藝線上圖書館 (<https://www.airitilibrary.com>) website, verify your credentials, and search directly there.

The libraries you're logged into and your 瀏覽館別 (Collection) setting do not affect search results of academic literature in the app.
